
Business Model Canvas for Service Design

The business model canvas is a great tool when you want to get a full overview of the business model of new products or services. You can also use it to draw existing business models to analyze where you can innovate and improve your business model.

The Business Model Canvas

Key Partners

Describe entities that are going to help you fulfill the key activities and provide the key resources for your service.

Key Activities

Name the key activities of your service – the ones which will contribute most to your value proposition.

Key Resources

Describe the resources and tools you will need to deliver your service.

Value Propositions

Define exactly how your service will create value for your customers/users.

Customer Relationships

State how you plan to gain and retain customers for your service.

Channels

Write how you plan to reach your customers – which channels will you use to deliver your value proposition?

Customer Segments

A business model should be focused on a particular target group, so that's what you write here.

Cost Structure

Describe which costs are involved in your service delivery.

Revenue Streams

Describe how your service will create income.

Sustainability

Describe if and how you plan to ensure that your service is sustainable.

Service Design: Delivering Integrated Service Experiences

Intermediate course

Service Design is important! People engage with services every day and everywhere, so as designers we can make a big difference to a lot of people if we ensure that those services are efficient and provide a great experience. We can also make a big difference to our businesses and organizations if we ensure that services are delivered better than our competitors.

By the end of the Service Design: Delivering Integrated Service Experiences course, you'll know how to confidently run a service design project and which tools and methods to use along the way. You'll also know how to evangelize service design in your organization and with your stakeholders, and how to assemble a service design team.

If you're already familiar with human-centered design methods or work in user experience, product design or even C-Suite business management, then this course will extend your skills and show you how to deliver integrated and omni-channel services as part of a collaborative team. You'll be able to apply a deeper understanding to your existing work to achieve even better results.
